DEPARTMENT CHAIR ACADEMIC PERSONNEL REVIEW CHECKLIST

This checklist was prepared in compliance with APM 220-80-c of the Academic Personnel Manual (APM):

"Each campus shall develop guidelines and checklists to instruct Chairpersons about their duties and responsibilities in connection with personnel reviews." The goal is to answer yes to all the questions on the list; however some elements may be department, college or school specific. For more in-depth instructions, consult the CALL or your Dean.

It is extremely important that the Chair instill in each faculty member a sense of responsibility for preparing accurate files and meeting all deadlines. The Chair, in turn, must exercise strong leadership in managing the file evaluation and submission to the Dean within the agreed upon time frames.

In all responsibilities, the Chair should follow the guidelines in the CALL as available on the Academic Personnel website.

*Target Time frames – these dates are only intended as examples to help you adhere to deadlines as established in the CALL

1. Initial Meeting with Candidate
*Spring / Summer	Schedule a meeting with the candidate to discuss upcoming review as well as to answer any questions, and inform candidate of the entire process. In promotion cases, Department Chair should meet with the candidate at least 1 year before proposing the promotion to assess readiness Inform candidate of APM 210-1, 220-80 ,160 and if applicable, APM 13. If applicable, remind candidate to suggest names for extramural reviewers If applicable, notify candidate that s/he may provide in writing (to be included in the file) names of persons who may not provide objective evaluations Review text of solicitation letter (if applicable) Discuss materials to be sent to extramural reviewers (if applicable) Encourage candidate to include a self-statement in the file that contextualizes, rather than merely enumerates, the items in the file. The self-statement should address research/creative activity, teaching and service. If the self-statement sent to the extramural reviewers differs from the self-statement reviewed by the department, both self-statements must be included in the file. Give any other supplemental instruction in accordance with Dean's Office or Departmental procedures
2. Before the Department Meeting
Month of September/October	Extramural letters are solicited Candidate prepares the file (ensure file cut-off dates specified in the CALL are adhered to) Collect other documents to be included in the file and assure cut-off dates are adhered to, e.g. extramural letters Chair should ensure that file is complete and has been audited for accuracy. Any corrections to the file should occur BEFORE faculty review Advise candidate of his/her right to inspect complete file and notify the candidate of the department meeting date Candidate completes top portion of procedural safeguard certifying accuracy of information Ensure that any documents in a foreign language include a translation in the file Give candidate redacted extramural letters and the opportunity to include a written statement in response to or commenting on these or other material in the file. The statement must be received 5 days prior to the department meeting Upon receipt of candidate's statement, notify faculty that the file is ready for review Assure departmental faculty have reviewed the file before the department meeting Assure that absentee ballots are received prior to departmental meeting Remind departmental faculty that those who write letters of evaluation will be disqualified from service on the candidate's ad hoc committee in cases of appraisal and promotion
